Squirro, a Zurich-based startup, provides an Adaptive Search Appliance. The product gives sales teams an automated "living view" of their customers with insights about their business.

We are looking for an intern to assist in that process. You will be analyzing various aspects of businesses, independently find connections in related aspects and deliver the resulting insights to the sales team.

You bring:

- Passion for business
- Independent work attitude
- Team player mentality
- Flexibility in work times

You will learn:

- To analyze common business dimensions (yearly reports, financials, ...).
- To translate those dimensions into insights.
- To work in a dynamic IT startup environment.

This is a paid internship with work place in Zürich, Switzerland. Partial remote work is possible.
