and Humanistic Research Foundation

MENEGHETTI AWARD 2011 FOR ECONOMICS, MEDICAL, PHYSICS RESEARCH

The Antonio Meneghetti Scientific and Humanistic Research Foundation hereby launches an award, also in accordance with the Foundation's bylaws, for research in Economics, Medicine and Physics which can be applied to the field of Ontopsychology.

The Foundation aims to disseminate and promote Ontopsychological thought, as expressed in Professor Meneghetti's fundamental books, and the adoption of integral humanism in philosophical, scientific, artistic and business practices. The Foundation has no specific support limitations and does not engage in for-profit pursuits.

The award is designed to give recognition to the scientific quality of an original study in the fields of Economics, Medicine, and Physics that might be related in any way to Ontopsychology.

To this end, the Antonio Meneghetti Foundation will award the sum of EUR. fifteen thousand (15,000.00) to one paper selected in each of the three areas of Economics, Medicine and Physics.

Participation requirements

Each scientific submission can be either:

- a research paper published in an international journal not earlier than 2010;
- or an original study: consideration will be given only to complete and print-ready manuscripts, inclusive of all notices confirming that all the formalities related to rights and copyrights have been fulfilled by the Author.

Candidates must have a University Degree (Master's degree level).

In case of publications with multiple Authors, participation in the award is open to the submitting Author who has received the written consent of his or her co-Authors.

Award terms and conditions

Candidates are required to fill and submit an application (Annex A) to the Foundation either by e-mail to awards@fondazionemeneghetti.ch or in paper format to Fondazione di Ricerca Scientifica ed Umanistica Antonio Meneghetti, Via G. Cattori 11 – 6900 Paradiso – Switzerland (CH), by Friday 29 April 2011. Compliance with this deadline shall be confirmed by the date of receipt. Candidates must attach the publication or the original study (in PDF format for e-mail submissions and in paper format for postal submissions) to the application.

It is the candidates' responsibility to ensure that their submissions have been received.

The result shall be notified directly to the selected Authors via a letter from the Foundation's Chairman within 45 days of the foregoing deadline.

The award's Scientific Committee shall select and recommend to the Foundation's Council the winning submissions. The award's Scientific Committee shall be made up of the Foundation's Chairman and two other members – of an international stature – for each of the three areas, selected from among Ontopsychology scholars. Meetings of the Scientific Committee may be held also online but participation by all its members is required. Resolutions shall be adopted by a majority vote.

All submissions must be written in one of the following languages: Italian, English, Russian, Portuguese, and Chinese.

Evaluation criteria

The Scientific Committee will review:

- the scientific quality of the publications based on international standards
- pertinence of the subject to Ontopsychological thought.

Winner

In the case of a paper by a single Author, such Author shall be the winner. In the case of multi-authored papers, the award shall be given to the submitting Author who, in turn, is required to attach to the application the consent of the other co-Authors.

Documents to be submitted

Candidates (submitting Authors) need to submit the following documentation:

- an application duly filled (see Annex A) and signed by the candidate (submitting Author)
- a copy of the candidate's (or submitting author's) valid identity card
- a curriculum vitae not longer than one page
- University degree certificate

Award ceremony

The winner will receive the sum during the award ceremony, which will be held on 13 June 2011 in Geneva, Switzerland.

Unassigned awards

The amounts of unassigned awards shall be withheld by the Foundation.

Dissemination of results

The Foundation, in keeping with the intellectual property rights related to the papers that received the award, may undertake initiatives, also in cooperation with third parties, to disseminate and communicate the contents of such papers.

Information and contacts

For any information or communication please contact:

Acceptance of rules and rights

Participation in the award entails acceptance of all the rules hereunder. Therefore, failure to comply with any such rules shall result in the automatic exclusion from the contest (without any obligation to inform the non-compliant party). Furthermore, by accepting such rules Authors give their consent to use the submitted papers for all the activities related to the contest, hereby waiving any copyright claim associated therewith.

As to personal data protection, participants should know that the personal data provided to enroll in the contest, or obtained by the Foundation for such purposes, shall be processed solely to carry out the activities associated with the contest. Such processing shall be performed by the persons in charge of the procedure, including through the use of information technology equipment, in the manner and within the limits set to pursue such activity. Under no circumstances shall collected data be published or provided to third parties.
